The option incorporates sustainability criteria and exclusionary screens into the Australian and International shares, Australian and International fixed interest and part of the Alternative investments asset classes of the option.

The option provides exposure to investments (within the Australian and International shares, Australian and International fixed interest and part of the Alternative investments asset classes of the option) that Pandal view as supporting positive environmental and/or social change via their investment processes, use of capital, and/or active ownership while avoiding exposure to those companies and issuers with business activities that Pandal considers to negatively impact the environment or society.¹

The sustainability criteria and exclusionary screens applied to the option's investments may exclude some industry sectors, companies or issuers from the option's investable universe. For this reason, the option's performance may vary when compared to other funds that do not apply sustainable or ethical criteria in their investment process. This risk should be considered when deciding whether to invest in the option.

All reasonable care has been taken to implement the option's exclusionary screens. Pandal draws on internal and supplementary external research, believed to be accurate, to determine whether a company is subject to the exclusionary screens. As the nature and conduct of businesses may change over time, and publicly available financial or other information is not always comprehensive or up to date, Pandal does not guarantee that the option will meet all of these criteria at all times.

Labour, Environmental, Social and Ethical Considerations

Sustainability

The option has a sustainability objective which aims to support the transition to a more sustainable economy (the Sustainability Objective).

Pendal defines a sustainable economy as an economic system which balances environmental, social, and economic factors.

The option aims to support the transition to a more sustainable economy, by aligning 50% or more of its capital (within the Australian and International shares, Australian and International fixed interest and part of the Alternative investments asset classes of the option) in aggregate with investments that advance this transition.

Pendal aim to do this by allocating capital to investments that in their view:

- support positive environmental and/or social change via their investment processes, use of capital and/or approach to active ownership; and
- avoid exposure to companies and issuers with business activities that negatively impact the environment and/or society.¹

The option's Sustainability Objective does not apply to derivatives.

Pendal applies their sustainability assessment to investments in the option's Australian and International shares, Australian and International fixed interest and part of the Alternative investments asset classes of the option. Within these asset classes, Pendal assess an investment's sustainability characteristics for alignment with the option's Sustainability Objective. Pendal's assessment may consider the following types of sustainability characteristics:

- Positive screening or positive tilts – Pendal considers whether the investment has a strategy in place that intentionally favours companies or assets that are considered to support positive environmental and/or social change via their investment processes;
- Approach to active ownership – active ownership refers to the influence that can be applied to management teams and relevant stakeholders of investee companies and assets by asset owners via engagement and voting activities;
- Exclusionary screening process – Pendal considers the investment's approach to screening out securities that are considered to negatively impact the environment and/or society;¹
- Sustainability reporting – Pendal considers the investment's approach to reporting their sustainability targets and commitments.

Pendal continually monitors the sustainability characteristics of the option's investments. A portion of the option's capital (within the Australian and International shares, Australian and International fixed interest and part of the Alternative investments asset classes) in aggregate will be in alignment with the option's Sustainability Objective.²

If Pendal determines that an investment no longer meets the option's sustainability criteria, Pendal may choose to engage with the underlying manager, company or issuer to address the issue. If the engagement is unsuccessful, Pendal may divest the holding (usually within six months) having regard to the interests of investors. The time it takes to sell an investment depends on factors including, but not limited to, the size and liquidity of the investment (which may have an impact on the option's performance returns), and the time it takes for Pendal to assess suitable replacement investments that meet the option's exclusionary screens and sustainability criteria.

Exclusionary Screens

In managing the option's Australian and International shares, Australian and International fixed interest and part of Alternative investments asset classes, exclusionary screens are applied to manage the option's exposure to companies and issuers with activities that Pendal considers to negatively impact the environment and/or society.¹

Exclusionary screens are not applied to investments in the option's Australian and International property securities, Unlisted property (including unlisted infrastructure and private equity), part of the option's Alternative investments asset classes and certain financial instruments such as securities issued by government, semi-government or supranational entities, derivatives and cash. This is because such investments, financial instruments or issuers are not able to be reasonably screened for involvement in activities that Pendal considers to negatively impact the environment and/or society.¹

The use of derivatives may result in the option having indirect exposure to companies or issuers that would otherwise be excluded.

The Australian and International shares, Australian and International fixed interest and a component of the Alternative investment components of the option will not invest in companies and issuers which directly:

- produce tobacco (including e-cigarettes and inhalers); or
- manufacture controversial weapons (including landmines, biological weapons, blinding laser weapons, chemical weapons, cluster munitions, depleted uranium weapons, incendiary weapons, non-detectable fragments, nuclear weapons and except for International fixed interest, white phosphorus weapons).

- production of alcoholic beverages; or

Limitations

All reasonable care has been taken to implement the option's exclusionary screens to meet the criteria described above. To determine whether an investment is subject to the option's exclusionary screens, Pandal relies on internal and supplementary external research, believed to be accurate. However, as the nature and conduct of businesses may change over time, and publicly available financial or other information is not always comprehensive or up to date, Pandal does not guarantee that the option's investments will meet all of the option's exclusionary screen criteria at all times.

Where the option invests in non-Pandal funds or non-Pandal ETFs, LICs or LITs, Pandal does not guarantee that these investments will meet all of the option's exclusionary screen criteria at all times. This is because Pandal does not control the exclusionary screening methodology applied by such funds, ETFs, LICs or LITs and relies on publicly available information to monitor their compliance with the option's exclusionary screens.

Pandal reviews investments subject to the option's exclusionary screens monthly, however some investments within the option's Alternative investments asset class are reviewed quarterly. Pandal monitors the option's compliance with its exclusionary screens daily.

If Pandal determines that an investment no longer meets their exclusionary screen criteria, they will divest the holding (usually within six months) having regard to the interests of investors. The time it takes to sell an investment depends on factors including, but not limited to, the size and liquidity of the investment (which may have an impact on the option's performance returns), and the time it takes for Pandal to seek and assess suitable replacement investments that meet the option's exclusionary screens and sustainability criteria.

Stewardship

Pandal is committed to stewardship (including through corporate engagement, proxy voting, or other engagement and advocacy activities) and it is an extension of our active approach to investment management. Pandal undertakes engagement with the companies and issuers to manage risks, effect change and realise potential value over the long term.

1 As defined by the option's exclusionary screens and gross revenue thresholds.

2 The option aims to support the transition to a more sustainable economy by aligning 50% or more of its capital (within the Australian and International shares, Australian and International fixed interest and part of the Alternative investments asset classes of the Fund) in aggregate with investments that advance this transition.

3 Companies with a climate transition plan may be exempted from this exclusion, provided that they have in place a Paris Agreement aligned transition plan and produce climate-related financial disclosures annually, which in both cases Pandal considers credible.
