

SignatureSuper® Performance as at 30 June 2023

The table below sets out the investment option returns for the investment options in SignatureSuper. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Returns may vary considerably over time. The value of investments may go up or down and you may not get back the amount you invested. Investment option returns are calculated from changes in the unit price (or crediting rate declared) of the investment option over the period shown and are after the deduction of investment fees, costs and superannuation fund earnings tax included in the unit price (or crediting rate declared) and then also administration fees. Investment option returns assume a sum of money is invested at the beginning of the time period and neither drawn upon nor added to throughout that period. Your actual rate of return of your account will vary from those displayed depending on the timing of contributions, switches or withdrawals that you have made over the period and any fees charged and rebates credited directly to your account.

Please note that the MySuper investment option returns are not equivalent to the returns shown on the AMP MySuper dashboard which also include a deduction for the MySuper member fee for a representative member with an account balance of $50,000 throughout the period.

Returns are calculated net of all standard percentage-based fees and costs. Some members may qualify for discounted administration fees, which would effectively increase the returns shown below. This discount is not applicable to cash and term deposits, or MySuper, and is subject to change.

Important Notes

Warning: You should exercise caution in comparing investment performance across investment options or superannuation funds based on past performance because past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. There are many factors that can cause any performance comparisons to be inaccurate, including:

- Each investment option has a defined strategy and objective. Asset allocations differ between investment options. The level of risk can vary depending on the assets that make up the strategy. Typically growth assets can be more volatile than defensive assets, as an example, Australian Equities tend to be more volatile than Australian Bonds.
- The returns you receive in your account may vary substantially to the past investment option returns shown, due to the timing of your contributions as well as the timing and amount of any deductions or switches from your account (including any fees not incorporated into the unit price) and also where you have been transferred from one investment option to another by the trustee.
